In the case of the ATPL Skill Test for the issue of an ATPL licence, it is necessary to perform the test under the following concept:

- The examiner shall verify the applicant's prerequisites, experience and crediting in accordance with FCL.510.A ATPL(A) or FCL.510.H ATPL(H).
- Abnormal and emergency procedures should be conducted as PF or PM in accordance with the MCC concept (manoeuvring part)
- During the LOFT part of the ATPL Skill Test, the applicants shall operate as PF through all sections so as to demonstrate the ability to perform PIC duties on a multi-pilot aeroplane under IFR, with the focus on decision making and overall management of the flight, as per FCL.520.A ATPL(A) or FCL.520.H. ATPL(H). Applicants may choose either the left-hand or the right-hand seat for the skill test if all items can be executed from the selected seat. In this part of the test, PM plays the role of FO (a special briefing for PM shall be provided).
- ATPL skill test may serve at the same time as a skill test for the issue of the licence and a proficiency check for the revalidation of the type rating for the aircraft used in the test and may be combined with the skill test for the issue of an MP type rating.
